

--ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Operational process and arrangement for controlling transmission of information from nodes that are connected with one another through a star coupled configuration of a data bus with at least one of the nodes being connected by a light guide to the data bus. The nodes transmit information by a transmission sequence beginning with synchronization pulses having a start time which is determined to be independent of any particular node and is a function of only the transmission sequence. --